

English A Reading Journal

In the next 12 weeks, you will need to read 6 Graded-Readers and complete 6 entries in your Reading Journal. Every two weeks, I will collect your Reading Journal entry, and I will give you another print to use for your next entry. The Reading Journal entries will be handed in on Week 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, and July 3rd (Groups 3 and 5) or July 11th (Groups 1 and 7).

When you are choosing books to read you will need to use the score you received on the EPER exam which you took last week. Most of you really improved your reading level, so this term you need to read books at this new level. It might be more challenging, but if you want to improve your reading skills, you need to challenge yourself to read at this new level.

The Reading Journal Format

You will write your Journal entries on the handouts that I give out each week. I have given you a sample of that handout today. Please take a look at it.

- Write your name in English.
- Write the number of your class: ①, ②, ③, etc.
- Write the number that entry: Entry 1, Entry 2, etc.
- Write the date you hand in that Reading Journal entry.
- The Personal Vocabulary List is where you will keep a list of the most important NEW words you find in ALL of your English A classes (not just this Reading Module). Although most of the words in this list will come from the books you read in the Reading Module, you can include any words or expressions you find in any of your English classes. You must do 20 words each week, and with EACH of these words, you will need to include the following information.
  - the new word
  - the Japanese translation of that word
  - the form of that word (a noun (名詞), verb (動詞), adjective (形容詞), adverb (副詞), etc.)
  - the original sentence which the new word came from in the book you read.
- Here you will write three words that are related to the new word. You can write synonyms, antonyms, or important derivatives of the new word. We will talk about these next week.
- the Japanese translation of the related words
- a new sentence using the new word that shows you understand the meaning of the word.
ex. ⊗ I am an instructor.
○ The instructor helped his students understand the difficult lesson.
- You are required to add 20 words to this list above, but if you find any additional words or expressions, add them to this list. These additional words are OPTIONAL, but if you want to improve your English skill you need to be learning more and more new words!
- Write the title of the Graded Reader that you read that week.

15. Write the Level of the Graded Reader. (Elementary, Stage 1, Level 3, etc.)
16. Here you need to write a one-page Summary of the Graded Reader you read for that week. A Summary (要約) is a short description of the main points. In English A, you will need to write a short summary of each chapter of the book you read. Therefore, before you start you need to decide how many lines each chapter should have. You do this by dividing 36 by the number of chapters in your book. For example, if your book has 9 chapters, each chapter should have 4 lines of summary ( $36 \div 9 = 4$ ).
17. Here you need to write your Reaction (感想) to the book you read. A Reaction shows your opinions, thoughts and feelings about story. In your Reactions, you need to first write about your General Impressions of the book. Was it good? Bad? Interesting? Boring? Did you like the characters in the book? Did you like the writing style of the author? Were there any parts of the books that you especially liked or disliked? Etc.? Etc.? You should try to answer these questions and WHY you think so.
- Also, I would like you to try to think more deeply about the stories you read and the "Themes" (テーマ) the author wrote about. Every story has several themes (love, hate, family, rich vs. poor, friendship, etc.). In your Reaction, I want you to tell me about TWO of these themes. First, you need to VERY BRIEFLY describe what the author thinks about the theme or how the theme is described in the story. Then, I want you to tell me how your ideas about that theme compare or contrast (比較対照する) with what the author thinks. I would also like you to write about the experiences you have had with that theme in YOUR life. For example, in the popular story "Romeo and Juliet", the author William Shakespeare writes about many themes, such as family, friendship, young love, and suicide. The following is a sample of how you could write about the theme: suicide

Theme 1 suicide

(author's viewpoint)

In the end of the story, the young lovers Romeo and Juliet kill themselves. In this story, the author describes the suicide as a tragic mistake. They hadn't planned to kill themselves, but they think it is better to be dead than to live without each other.

(your viewpoint)

I think this is just a silly romantic love story. I don't think that people should kill themselves, especially because of "lost love" or when they are so young. They were only 16 years old! They had their whole lives to live. They never had a chance to grow up and experience life. I think they were just immature and stupid. I can't imagine killing myself just because I lost a girlfriend. If I lose one girlfriend, I can find another - maybe a better one! In Japan, it has become popular to commit suicide with people you meet on the internet. I know it might be sad to die alone, but it must be more sad to die with people who are total strangers. Life is too precious to lose by ending your own life. We should live every day as if it were our last day. That way, I think we can really learn to appreciate being alive.

18. Finally, you need to keep a record of your reading schedule which I will explain later

Grading

Each entry is worth 30 points: 15 points for quantity, 15 points for quality. Quantity is how much you write and you will receive all 15 points if you fill in all of the space on the worksheet. Quality is how well you do. For the Summary, your quality score will depend on how well you describe the story from the beginning of the story to the end. You don't need to tell everything, but you need to cover all of the main points from beginning to end. For the Reaction, your quality score will depend on how well you show me that you have really read and understood the book. Also, you will need to show me how the events in this book relate to you and your life.

Reading Journal Schedule

For English A, you are expected to read 6 graded readers and finish 6 Reading Journal entries. You will have two weeks (14 days) to finish reading each book and completing the Reading Journal. In order to do this homework as well as possible, I suggest you follow this schedule.

- Days 1 - 2
- Choose a graded reader that matches your reading level. Use your EPER score to match your level to the graded readers in the library.
  - Survey your graded reader (BEFORE you read the story)
    - Look at the illustrations (挿し絵) in the book. Imagine what is happening in each illustration and how it might relate to the story. As you are looking at the illustrations, you should try to answer the following questions. Who is in the illustration? What are they doing? How do you think this relates to the story? What is the setting? What objects can you see? etc. DO NOT read the story to answer these questions. Use your IMAGINATION and GUESS.

2. Skim your graded reader for all the words you don't know. Skim means to read quickly and lightly. You are not reading the story, just looking for unknown words. After you have finished, copy all your unknown words in the Personal Vocabulary List of your Reading Journal. Then, look up all of these words in your dictionary and write the meanings. You don't need to do all the other activities in your Personal Vocabulary List now. For now, all you need to do is find the Japanese meanings.

Days 3 - 10 c. Read for Pleasure

1. For at least 20 or 30 minutes every day, read your graded reader. You should be able to read the story two or three times. The first time, read the book as quickly as you can. Don't worry too much about understanding deeply. Just try to get a general understanding of the story.
2. The second and third time read the story more carefully, more deeply. Try to understand everything the author has written. Also, as you are reading, try to identify the most important themes in the story and what the author thinks about those themes.
3. Continue completing the Personal Vocabulary List in your Reading Journal.

Days 11 - 14 d. Writing your Summary and Reaction

1. After you have finished reading the story, go back and review each chapter. Then, write a brief summary of the main points. You can't write everything, so carefully choose the most important points of each chapter.
2. After finishing the summary, write your Reaction to the story.
